Dozens of migrants drown in new horror

DOZENS of passengers in a crowded rubber boat fell into the sea and may have drowned as a rescue vessel approached, survivors reported as they arrived in Italy yesterday to join thousands of others rescued in the Mediterranean.

Giovanna di Benedetto of the aid group Save the Children said the exact toll is not known, but she said survivors, in their first interviews with aid officials, reported that many people fell into the sea and could not swim after their boat either deflated or experienced difficulty.

The incident is believed to have occurred on Sunday in the sea between Libya and Sicily when a commercial vessel, the Zeran, approached the rubber boat to rescue the migrants.

The survivors were yesterday brought to Catania.

The weekend saw a dramatic increase in rescues as smugglers in Libya took advantage of calm seas and warm weather to send thousands of would-be refugees out into the Mediterranean.

'Rape' soldiers appear in court

A JURY was yesterday sworn in on the trial of two Libyan soldiers accused of raping a man in Cambridge while stationed in the UK.

Moktar Ali Saad Mahmoud, 33, and Ibrahim Abogutilla, 22, both deny raping and aiding and abetting the rape of a man in his 20s on Christ's Pieces on October 26.

Prosecutor John Farmer will open their trial at Cambridge Crown Court later today (Wednesday).

The pair were arrested while undergoing training at Basingbourn Barracks in Cambridgeshire.

The men remain in custody.

IRA COMMANDER SHOT DEAD

A FORMER IRA commander investigated for a murder which shook the Northern Ireland peace process has been shot dead in Belfast.

Gerard "Jock" Davison was gunned down yesterday in the republican Markets area near the city centre. He was fatally wounded on Welsh Street at around 9am, police said.

Mr Davison was allegedly involved in the fight that led to the death of Belfast man Robert McCartney in January 2005 and was among three IRA members expelled following an internal investigation.

He was questioned by police but released without charge. Sinn Féin South Belfast

Stormont assembly member Alex Maskey said: "What we have had here today is a very brutal killing of a local man."

"He is a very well-known person in this area. His family are well-known and he is very well-regarded in this area as a long-standing republican."

A large cordon was put up around the scene and a police forensic tent was erected over the victim's body.

Small groups of local people and a number of high-profile Belfast republicans stood at the police line watching scenes-of-crime officers in white forensic suits spend most of the morning carrying out detailed examinations of the area.

Most people were reluctant to speak about the shooting but have expressed shock.

Mr McCartney's sisters led a long-running battle for justice for the killing of their brother, following a bar argument, which took them to the White House.

The killing happened at a time when Sinn Féin was under pressure to accept the rule of law in Northern Ireland.

Its decision to support the police two years later led to the formation of a ministerial executive at Stormont and the sharing of power between republicans and the DUP.

Mr Davison's uncle, Terence Davison, was later acquitted of Mr McCartney's killing.

Recruitment sergeant is guilty of 13 sex attacks

A WAR veteran who served in Iraq and Afghanistan was yesterday found guilty of sexually abusing seven young women who dreamt of joining the British Army.

Sgt Edwin Mee, 46 (below), attacked the recruits after swapping the excitement of the battlefield for a "dull" job as a deskbound recruiter.

Mee used the screening process to isolate his victims at an Army careers centre in Croydon, south London.

He "gauged" the vulnerability of cadets who were born overseas and then "kept" them to himself so he could sexually abuse them.

Mee attacked one young woman from Sierra Leone after tricking her into believing her visa status depended on him - even pretending to ring the Home Office moments before raping her.

Glaswegian Mee also pounced on five other recruits who he spanked on the bottom.

Mee was found guilty of 10 counts of sexual assault, two counts of rape and one count of assault by penetration. He was cleared of three counts of sexual assault.

Jurors at Southwark Crown Court continue to deliberate on four more counts of sexual assault and a further rape charge against four complainants.

Mee looked incredulous as the verdicts were read and was heard muttering, "What the f*ck?" and "you're f*cking joking me."

He had rubbished his victims' accounts, branding one woman he raped a "time waster" and blasting another's story as "absolutely ludicrous".

Mee hounded one "shy" 17-year-old recruit, demanding to know if she was a virgin before smacking her bottom.

And he bragged to one of his rape victims, "I am from the Army, I can do anything".

Mee joined the army when he was 24 and served for around 19 years before he was medically discharged in April 2014.

He had fought in war zones across the world, but found his new post interviewing recruits in Croydon "dull".

Mee, formerly of Croydon, but now living in Scotland, had denied 17 counts of sexual assault, three counts of rape and one count of assault by penetration.

Trial continues.

ON TRIAL: Leading Seaman Christopher Cook denies slapping drunk victim in the face with his penis

A ROYAL Navy sailor assaulted a colleague by pushing a beer bottle up his bottom in a drunken prank on board a warship - which was filmed and shown to the ship's company, a court martial has heard.

The incident happened aboard the Plymouth-based frigate HMS Northumberland while it was in Bournemouth, Dorset, for an air show in August 2013.

Nadim Bashir, prosecuting, told the trial at Portsmouth Naval Base's court martial centre the victim had been drinking heavily after being invited to an event at the petty officer's mess.

Having thrown up several times, the victim had fallen asleep on a seating area and someone had placed a duvet over him when the alleged attack took place.

Logistician Andrew Donaldson, 34, denies a charge of assault by penetration using the Heineken bottle and a count of disgraceful conduct of an indecent kind.

Leading Seaman Christopher Cook, 31, denies a charge of disgraceful conduct of an indecent kind by repeatedly slapping the victim in the face with his penis.

Mr Bashir said that a number of other members of the ship's company had also posed for pics next to the victim's bare bottom either sticking their tongues out or with their thumbs up.

He said: "Matters were to escalate rapidly. Donaldson took hold of a beer bottle and made a statement for those viewing the video of his intentions.

"When the neck of the bottle didn't go in far enough, with both hands he pushed the base of the bottle, to insert the whole neck of the bottle, resulting in the complainant recoiling and waking up."

Mr Bashir said that the incident had been filmed by Leading Logistician Roger Spratt on Donaldson's mobile phone and photographs were also taken "for the amusement of others".

He continued: "To add to the humiliation of the complainant, the footage was emailed by Logistician Donaldson to himself to ensure a copy was kept on his computer for future use and he texted the footage, certainly to another member of the ship's company."

"He was showing the footage for his own amusement to the amusement of others of what he had done."

"Word quickly spread about what had happened and resulted in the complainant being ridiculed."

In a statement read to the court, the victim said that he had drunk six cans of Bulmers cider in an hour which had caused him to vomit.

He said: "I was very drunk, for this to wake me up demonstrates the force used. At no time have I given anyone permission to touch me or carry out such an act."

Describing the strength of the act as being eight out of 10, he added: "I remember being woken by a feeling of intense pressure in my anus."

"This confused me as I didn't know what was going on."

The trial continues.

Amy: I just can't handle my monster 32DD boobs

TOWIE star Amy Childs has confessed: "I want SMALLER boobs!"

The 24-year-old beauty admits she's unhappy with her whoppin' 32DDs.

And Amy, from Barking, says she now REGRETS ever getting a boob job.

She told reporters: "I'd like to have smaller boobs. They're just not right."

"But I wouldn't get my implants taken out. I do like being busty – just not this big!"

"I had my first surgery at 18 and I thought they looked great. My mum told me not to, but I did it anyway."

"When I got to 22, I wanted them even bigger. They were brilliant for about a year – but all of a sudden they just dropped."

"I wish I'd listened to my mum. I was addicted to surgery, 100 per cent."

Kanye 'let off' n-word gig at Brit awards

RAPPER Kanye West's controversial Brits performance will not be investigated, after hundreds of shocked viewers complained about his repeated use of the n-word.

The US star, supported by a huge backing cast including someone operating a flame-thrower, performed his track All Day at the event.

ITV muted sections of the song, performed just after the 9pm watershed, at the time but there were 151 complaints to watchdog Ofcom.

An Ofcom spokesman said: "We received a number of complaints that Kanye West's language, just after the watershed, was offensive but we will not be taking the matter forward for investigation."

"Having carefully assessed the complaints, we noted that before the programme ITV took steps to ensure that offensive language was not used, and during the programme to mute the majority of it."

STRAIGHT TALKING

FROM UKIP'S DEPUTY LEADER

No vote is wasted

ON Saturday, members of the all-inclusive, equality-first, holier than thou Labour party attended a socialist-supporting rally in Birmingham.

For once, though, they weren't crowing about this multi-cultural event all over social media.

The likes of Labour front benchers Jack Dromey – aka Mr Harriet Harman – and Tom Watson were oddly quiet on the Twitter and Facebook front.

Maybe that was because the audience at the Islamic community centre in Hodge Hill was segregated – with women shunted to one side.

Which isn't very "equal" to me. As ever with the Labour party, it is a case of "do as I say, not as I do".

A party preaching equality that happily sits among and addresses an audience that puts females in a different class.

YOU wouldn't expect me not to say "please vote for UKIP in the General Election on Thursday" – but I'm going to explain why, too.

The UK Independence Party has done more to realign the political system in Great Britain than any other in the last half century.

How so? We've made the so-called major parties actually THINK.

We've also made them – forced them through public support – to do something that really doesn't come naturally.

Which is to make them LISTEN to the people who put them into office.

The people who pay their wages, meet all their expenses, and rightfully expect on the back of that for their views to be considered at the most uppermost reaches of power.

Yes – that's YOU. A taxpayer. A person of opinion. Someone who cares one way or the other. A voter.

Unlike other parties, UKIP likes voters. We respect voters.

Your opinion is just as important, just as valid, as mine. UKIP's aim is to put every man and woman of this country back in charge of politics.

Away from David Cameron's self-serving Toffs.

Away from Red Ed Miliband's champagne-quaffing socialists.

Away from whatever it is Nick Clegg says he stands for today.

Pressed

Just the way it should be – politics for, and by, the people.

And in doing so, UKIP really has changed the political conversation.

Forget the noise you hear from the rest of them and think about this.

Without UKIP, all you would hear now is Labour banging on about the NHS which they themselves started privatising – instead of the uncontrolled immigration problem which Labour now admits it created.

Without UKIP, the Tories would still be pretending it wasn't their mates in the banks who bugged up the nation's finances, when of course it was.

But now – thanks to UKIP – there is real conversation taking place in boardrooms, university boards, unions and bars, about where this nation is headed.

The future of our membership of the European Union is now a question finally on the drawing board – but only, ONLY because UKIP pressed for it to be there.

Five years ago, at the last general election, which no-one won, remember, no matter what David Cameron likes to think, we were clearly a nation divided.

I think that's changed. UKIP is not going to be forming a Government on Friday morning.

But it IS going to be influencing the way politics works in this country and that is because of YOU, the voter.

Don't listen to yawning old arguments about wasted votes. There really is no such thing.

Every single vote for UKIP has helped to change the dialogue of this country – and for the better, too.

So, yes, please – vote UKIP. And get yourself heard.

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

'Respected' BBC service all boils down to money

AFTER nearly 30 years of scribbling things down for a living for various different organisations, life finally took me inside a BBC newsroom on Sunday.

It was at the gleaming, multi-floored northern HQ of the corporation at Media City in Salford.

I couldn't help but be impressed.

Row upon row of state-of-the-art tech. Bundles of fresh newspapers everywhere (Guardians, obviously, but all the others, too).

Parched

Even an in-house Costa Coffee for when they're parched.

The idea of sending a couple of thousand BBC staff and several departments oop north was a box-ticking exercise, of course.

And not an altogether bad one, either. Why should London get all the dosh licence payers are forced to pay?

But having largely worked inside commercially-run newspaper offices pretty much my entire career, the difference was staggering.

Pitched around an atrium surrounded by seven vast floors of hacks were huge, jovially-coloured Polo mints.

HOW nice of Kate and Wills to name their new princess Charlotte Elizabeth Diana.

Just a bit surprised they didn't manage to fit Gurkha, Baltimore and Orville onto the birth certificate, too.

Each one housed two seats facing each other. Chat-pods, thought-yurts, idea-broilers? You tell me.

Yet in local newspapers across the UK, drowned out by the state-funded BBC, you'd be lucky to find a chair that works properly.

Auntie is rightly respected as the world's best and most respected broadcaster. But one glimpse inside the place speaks volumes about its mindset and output.

Like all things taxpayer-funded, it's all about the salaries first and the service second.

PRICEwaterhouseCoopers is one of the world's biggest accountancy firms – so in more ways than one, they really do count.

This week it announced it would no longer take A-level results into account when assessing potential employees.

PwC says it plans to scrap minimum A-Level grades for candidates because they're preventing it from hiring talent from disadvantaged backgrounds.

The A-Level is the supposed "gold standard" qualification in the UK.

But PwC says, from June, it will instead rely on its own assessment process and the candidate's degree score.

Richard Irwin, head of student recruitment for the firm, explained: "We've taken the view that if a candidate is able to show a strong degree, is able to demonstrate all the attributes and skills sets we need and who can succeed in our assessment process, then we should no longer punish them for having poor A-level grades."

So make the most of that mandatory sixth-form, kids, because it's just been rendered useless.

Twigs and Rob reveal cock, balls ...and ring!

SINGER FKA Twigs raised eyebrows when she arrived with her other half Robert Pattinson at New York's Met Gala, showing off what appeared to be an engagement ring and an erotic dress.

The Brit-born babe and the Twilight actor – who are thought to have become engaged after just six months of dating – made their red carpet debut as a couple at the event.

Ivor Novello-nominated singer Twigs – real name Tahliah Debrett Barnett – wore a brightly coloured Christopher Kane dress, which was printed with naked bodies and even a COCK AND BALLS!

She also appeared to be wearing a large engagement ring, confirming rumours the stars are set to wed.

FKA Twigs met Pattinson after the end of his romance with actress Kristen Stewart. She has said: "The positivity that I get from (my relationship) makes the more challenging aspects... worth it."

Adams bro loses sex abuse appeal

THE brother of Sinn Féin president Gerry Adams has lost an appeal against his convictions and sentence for raping and abusing his daughter.

Liam Adams, 59, was jailed for 16 years in 2013 after being found guilty of a string of attacks against his elder daughter, Aine Dahlstrom.

Delivering a reserved judgment, Lord Justice Patrick Coghlin said: "The court has not been persuaded that the verdict of the jury was unsafe and the appeal must be dismissed."

Adams was convicted of 10 offences against Mrs Dahlstrom – three counts of rape, four of indecent assault and three of gross indecency – committed over a six-year period between 1977 and 1983.

He watched the court proceedings via video link from Maghaberry Prison.

The American model has never been shy about flashing her curves, having famously starred in a homemade sex tape and has also posed for Playboy.

And the 34-year-old minx was at it again, donning a barely there frock to highlight her sumptuous bottom and bouncy boobs.

Bumhole

Kim left onlookers gasping as she arrived for the star-studded Met Gala in New York.

She only avoided flashing her bumhole, minge and nipples by using strategically-placed plasters and thin strips of material.

Kim wasn't the only one daring to bare – with dozens of A-listers trying to outdo each other in the flashing stakes.

Beyoncé Knowles' dress was as transparent as a pane of glass while model Naomi Campbell smiled as she showed the world her gaping cleavage.

Spin-off is bounty be a huge hit

STAR WARS bounty hunter Boba Fett is getting his own spin-off movie, it was revealed yesterday.

The helmeted baddie first appeared in the sci-fi franchise in 1980's The Empire Strikes Back, where he captures Harrison Ford's Han Solo before encasing him in "carbonite".

And Boba Fett – who dies in Return of the Jedi after being eaten by a hole-dwelling monster – is now set to star in an "origin" flick.

The spin-off will be penned by X-Men producer Simon Kinberg and is set to hit cinemas in the UK in 2018.

The first standalone anthology film will be Gareth Edwards's Star Wars: Rogue One, which will star Felicity Jones, Ben Mendelsohn and Riz Ahmed.

That film follows a group of resistance fighters who unite for a daring mission to steal the plans for the Death Star.

JEZZA IN NEW 'PIKEY' ROW

CONTROVERSY: The Top Gear trio and (above) the sign

TOP GEAR could be heading for MORE trouble after communications watchdog Ofcom confirmed it was investigating a complaint over the use of the word "pikey".

A representative of the Traveller Movement complained after a scene in which the show's now ex-host Jeremy Clarkson was seen holding a placard with the words "Pikey's Peak" while Richard Hammond drove a car up a mountain.

It comes after a similar complaint was lodged with the BBC but not upheld.

A BBC Trust ruling in March cleared Clarkson of racism, saying the word had been used to mean "cheap", rather than as a racist term.

Speaking at the time, a spokesman for the Traveller Movement said they were "horrified" by the "BBC's green-lighting of the use of the word".

Mumbling

It is not the first time the controversial show has run into trouble.

Clarkson was forced to apologise when footage emerged of him mumbling the n-word while reciting the children's nursery rhyme "eeny, meeny, miny, moe".

The show was also found to have breached broadcasting rules after Clarkson used the word

By ROBERT DEX
news@sundaysport.co.uk

"slope" as a racial term. And last year the show's crew were forced to flee Argentina after making reference to the Falklands conflict by using a car with the registration number H982 FKL.

A spokesman for the Traveller Movement welcomed the decision to investigate the latest complaint.

He said: "When the BBC Trust ruled that the word 'pikey' meant cheap and dodgy, it was clearly the trust that was being a bit cheap and dodgy."

"How can you work for understanding when racist abuse is seen as funny by a national broadcaster paid for by the public?"

Now he has posted an image of himself looking glum and sitting next to a bay, saying that he had to cancel gigs in Japan and Manila too.

"Very upset about Japan and Manila dates," he wrote.

"On my way to the States to see a specialist. This is f---king horrid."

The Grammy award winner (left) previously said: "The doctors have told me I need to fully rest until my vocal cords heal, otherwise this could become a huge, long-term issue."

"This kills me."

Chris gives BA blast over missed flight

BBC Radio 2 star Chris Evans has slammed British Airways after he was temporarily bumped off his flight from Nice, France, and almost missed his morning show.

The Breakfast Show presenter tweeted about yesterday's ordeal after he was told he didn't have a spot on the plane – despite having a TICKET.

So Evans told British Airways to explain to his Beeb bosses why he wouldn't be at work, before they offered him 'preferential service' and got him on a slightly later flight.

The 49-year-old feared he would be stranded overnight in the South of France when he arrived for his evening flight to London Heathrow and was told there was no room for him as it was overbooked.

But he later tweeted: "Lovely chap has turned up without his girlfriend. Looks like I am half of the new happy couple. My turn to buy the drinks."

A British Airways spokesperson said: "We are sorry some of our customers were delayed."

And nearby residents are being plagued as the sex enthusiasts stop to demand instructions on how to get there.

One neighbour said: "It's frustrating when folk turn up looking for a good time and end up asking for directions."

Another added: "It's bad enough people doing U-turns in our driveway, but it's another thing entirely when they knock on the door asking, 'Where's the orgy?'"

Pleading

The £1million Caldercuilt Farm, near Glasgow's Maryhill, was bought by Caledonian Property Estates in 2010. Now its organisers are pleading with the kinky couples to buy a decent sat-nav following the series of complaints.

The X-rated bashes are being run by Caroline Bulmer – a 51-year-old ex-Bank of Scotland manager – who quit her high-flying job to arrange bonk-bonanzas instead.

She advertises on an adult website. Single women and couples are given free entry but single men are charged £20 to enjoy the no-holes-

Next week there will be a 'Club Kink Night' where guests can experience the pleasures of BONDAGE.

And on May 13 there will be a 'Greedy Girls Gangbang'.

The site also lists dos and don'ts for 'transvestites, crossdressers' and their 'admirers'.

Gambo's sex probe memoir

VETERAN broadcaster Paul Gambaccini is putting pen to paper in a memoir about the 12 months he spent on bail before he was told he would not be charged over allegations of historic sex abuse.

The DJ has previously said he forfeited more than £200,000 in lost earnings and legal costs during the time when he was unable to work due to publicity surrounding the allegations.

The book, called Love, Paul Gambaccini, will be published in September and is described as a "no-holds barred story".

Paul said: "When I was sitting in a jail cell waiting for a solicitor, I made myself three promises. I would lose weight, become a better piano player and write a book about whatever was about to occur."

RYAN...BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR IN A CEREAL!

By LUCINDA CAMERON news@sundaysport.co.uk

HOLLYWOOD hunk Ryan Gosling has sent a touching tribute to a cancer victim who created a video clip of the star "refusing to eat his cereal"...

The star said his "heart goes out" to the family of Ryan McHenry, who has died aged 27 after a two-year battle with cancer.

Mr McHenry, from Glasgow, got the idea for the Vine video clips while eating cereal and watching Gosling in the hit film Drive.

By holding his own spoon in front of the TV screen and filming it, he made it appear that Gosling looked like he was refusing to eat it.

And he used the vids to highlight his struggle with cancer, before his death at the weekend.

After the news of his death emerged, Gosling posted a video of himself tucking into a bowl of cereal and told his fans: "My heart goes out to all of Ryan McHenry's family and friends."

"Feel very lucky to have been a part of his life in some small way."

Amazing

Naysun Alae-Carew, 29, a friend of Mr McHenry, said: "It's the most fitting send-off any of his friends or family could have hoped for. It was something he had always talked about."

"A few weeks ago Ryan acknowledged the Vines for the first time and Ryan McHenry was really happy about it."

"To have this is just amazing and for us and particularly his family it just really validates how much Ryan gave."

"They are just Vines to make people laugh but to have Ryan Gosling respond just shows the effect that Ryan McHenry had on the world."

NO LIKEY: Ryan in the spoof clips

The film-maker's pals have set up a page for donations to the cancer charity Sarcoma UK in his memory, which has already raised more than £3,300 towards its £7,500 target.

Zoe Morrell

By HAZEL GROVE
news@sundaysport.co.uk

SULTRY Zoe Morrell has confessed she has a kinky BONDAGE fantasy!

The 26-year-old beauty reckons that "nothing is off limits" when it comes to the bedroom.

And Zoe, from St Albans, Herts, even admits she's a bit of a DOMINATRIX!

The 30F stunna revealed: "I'm an open-minded girl and there's pretty much nothing I wouldn't do."

"I definitely enjoy tying my boyfriend to the bed, then licking all over his body and really teasing him!"

"I'm always up for a bit of kinky fun and making things last a bit longer."

LESS is more when it comes to these saucy frocks – as a shortage of garment material means acres of CLEAVAGE!

Singer Beyoncé Knowles left boxing fans punch drunk at the weekend when she turned up in Las Vegas for the Floyd Mayweather v Manny Pacquiao fight wearing a red dress with a plunging neckline.

The 33-year-old beauty was a mere gust of wind away from unleashing her nipples after leaving her bra at home.

But she's not the only babe to invest in 'tit tape' to keep her assets barely hidden. Warbler and telly show judge Rita Ora, 24, famously got in trouble for airing too much of her lovely boobs while appearing on BBC's The One Show – sparking uproar.

And Mylene Klass, 37, has had us gawping at her top rack ever since appearing on I'm a Celebrity...back in 2006.

Even Royals are at it – with Duchess of Cambridge's bootyful sister Pippa Middleton, 31, donning a daring outfit in March to attend a showbiz bash.

Now get an eyeful of these others babes who dare to bare...

STARS OF NEW 4 BLOCKBUSTER STRIP OFF

TARAJI P HENSON

KAITLIN DOUBLEDAY

Empire babes TOPLESS!

BRAND new drama Empire makes its UK debut this week – and here's the NAKED snaps telly bosses don't want you to see!

The programme – which starts tomorrow (Thursday) at 11pm on E4 – follows successful rap music mogul Lucius Lyon, who is diagnosed with Motor Neurone Disease. Lucius, played by Terrence Howard, must decide which of his three sons will take on his record label Empire, after he dies.

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

And we can EXCLUSIVELY reveal that not one, but TWO of its stars have gone fully TOPLESS!

Kaitlin Doubleday stars as Rhonda Lyon, the beautiful wife of Lucius' eldest son Andre.

The 30-year-old previously whipped 'em out in Sky Atlantic comedy Hung back in 2012.

In it she played a nympho student who discovers her high school teacher is a male prostitute.

Empire's Taraji P. Henson, 44, portrays Lucius' ex-wife Cookie, who has just come out of prison and wants to reclaim her place in the company.

And she went NUDE for a very raunchy sex scene in 2011 drama Baby Boy, starring Tyrese and Snoop Dogg.

Empire is also available to view on E4's on-demand service, 4oD.

TV star Seth nicked after speed cops 'find dope'

WALKING Dead star Seth Gilliam has been arrested for speeding, driving under the influence and being in possession of marijuana.

The 46-year-old actor (above) was nabbed on Sunday morning while driving, say reports.

Seth was allegedly doing over 100mph when pulled over in Peachtree City, in Georgia, USA, by police officers. He was reportedly released on a £5,000 bond.

Police noticed he smelled of alcohol after pulling him over. He admitted to having drunk three beers and taking a shot of some type of alcohol.

He was given a blood alcohol test. The police report also revealed the arresting officer found a joint in a cigarette box which was in the car's armrest.

As well as the popular zombie TV series, Seth has also played a police officer on The Wire.

He has starred in movies Courage Under Fire (1996), Starship Troopers (1997) and Did You Hear About The Morgans? (2009).

His latest film Police State – in which he plays Officer Grady opposite Sean Young and Neal Bledsoe – is in post production.

Trainspotter Rob to open film festival

ACTOR Robert Carlyle's "marvellously macabre" directorial debut is to open the Edinburgh International Film Festival, where it will receive its world premiere.

The Legend Of Barney Thomson, in which Carlyle also stars, will be screened at the Festival Theatre on June 17, kicking off the 12-day festival.

The "darkly humorous Glasgow-set thriller" also stars Emma Thompson, Ray Winstone and Tom Courtenay, with some of the cast expected on the red carpet at the opening gala.

Carlyle said he feels honoured his film has been chosen to open proceedings.

The Trainspotting star said: "After a long association with the festival, it gives me enormous pleasure to have The Legend Of Barney Thomson chosen as opening-night film.

"It really is such an honour for me to have my first feature as director premiered here in Edinburgh."

Robyn Lambert
Age 21, 32E-24-34, from Milton Keynes

Shane: It's not the Ender me yet!

STAYING PUT:
Shane Ritchie

EASTENDERS star Shane Richie has denied reports that he is about to leave the soap.

The actor, 51, was said to have hinted that fans should be prepared to wave goodbye to his alter-ego Alfie Moon in Albert Square.

His comments came after the BBC announced that Kat – played by Jessie Wallace – and Alfie would be leaving Walford temporarily to star in their own spin-off series.

Rocky

Their characters visit Ireland to put their rocky past behind them in the six-part drama. But Richie has now tweeted: "I am NOT leaving @bbceastenders #walfordforever".

The actor joined the BBC1 soap in 2002 and after leaving in 2005, returned almost five years later.

SHE'S BRITAIN'S ONLY TOPLESS COLUMNIST

It's war again as Jodie and Katie slug it out

● BLOODY hell, is it 2003 again? Because it looks like Jodie Marsh and Katie Price are at WAR!

Last week, Jodie slagged off Katie in an interview – despite them ending their feud YEARS ago.

She told Zoo magazine: "I don't care about Katie Price! She's the one who's famous for having loads of different kids with different dads."

And of course Katie kicked off! She wrote Jodie an open letter, calling her "vile" and accusing her of "shagging my leftovers".

She even tweeted a picture of her paying Jodie for a LAP DANCE from back when she worked as a stripper... Oh, dear!

I'm afraid I'm with Katie on this one. So what if she's got different kids by different dads? Lots of women do.

I respect the work Jodie has done for victims of bullying, but that doesn't make her better than Katie.

She needs to stop judging people. Live and let live.

● WELL, that Floyd Mayweather Jr vs Manny Pacquiao fight was a big waste of time, wasn't it?

I'm well pissed off that Mayweather won on points. It was just NOT exciting to watch.

Lots of people have said it was a great 'technical' match. So what? It was BORING!

He's not a respected athlete like Manny. Floyd has been convicted of domestic abuse. How can people still support him?

Only a coward hits a woman. He doesn't deserve to be a champion.

● I'M sick and tired of this election... I can't wait for it to be over!

Mainly, I'm just sick of all the bloody hypocrisy. Russell Brand (below) has previously told people NOT to vote... and now he tells them to vote Labour!

It begs the question: Why would anyone listen to him?

The fact Ed Miliband has got involved with him shows the Labour leader is DESPERATE.

I've always voted Conservative, but I'm not going to this year. I'm supporting UKIP.

Nevertheless, I still think the Tories will win. The British public doesn't like change, and David Cameron is the sensible option.

But I reckon Nigel Farage (left) will step down after Thursday. He's done a great job, but he's a bit of an old fart.

UKIP need someone who will appeal to a younger generation of voters.

It all happens tomorrow – so read next week's column for my election debrief!

My heart goes out to Rio

TRAGEDY: Ferdinand and wife Rebecca

THE news that Rio Ferdinand's wife had lost her battle with cancer was devastating.

Rebecca Ellison was just 34 years old. It really shows that we are all vulnerable, regardless of our family's wealth.

No-one's invincible and it's a tragedy that is affecting thousands of families every day in Britain.

I don't know Rio well, but I met him a few times back in the day.

As so often with celebrities, you sometimes feel like you know them because they're so familiar.

He always struck me as a good guy. I feel for him right now.

My mother died of cancer last year, so I know how difficult it is.

Bleach

It's coming up to the one-year anniversary of her death, so I've been thinking a lot about the disease.

I remember when my mum first went on chemotherapy, it worked. But after a while, it was less effective. That treatment takes everything from you – it's like bleach through your veins.

There's got to be another way.

Coincidentally, last week Sheridan Smith appeared in TV drama The C Word, about a journalist who suffered from cancer.

It was based on the real-life, heartbreaking story of Lisa Lynch, who passed away in 2013.

Hopefully, the programme will raise awareness of breast cancer among young women.

I heard one of my friends say, 'After you've wiped the tears away, you'll want to go and get checked.'

I think that's a wonderful and inspiring message.

Yob jailed for Jezza fire threat

A THUG who vowed to "burn out" his former partner on an episode of The Jeremy Kyle Show has been jailed for setting fire to her house.

Carl Webster, of Radford, Nottingham, made the sickening threats on the ITV show after a DNA test proved he was the father of his ex's child.

Luckily, no-one was injured in the blaze, but the 25-year-old admitted arson and has been jailed for four-and-a-half years.

Nottingham Crown Court heard Webster told Kyle that he had threatened to burn his son alive.

The show was never aired and the woman didn't contact police as she didn't take the threats seriously.

But, two days after filming in November last year, Webster sent her a message saying, "I'm doing what I said I'm going to do", before he set fire to an electricity box at the woman's home.

Police said that, on his arrest, Webster told officers there would not be a court case, but three funerals instead.

Fact me!

The film Jaws was based on a novel by Peter Benchley. When he couldn't think of a title, his father Nathaniel suggested What's That Noshin' On Ma Leg.

Sounds like E.T. really is out there

SPACE boffins are scratching their heads after capturing bizarre ALIEN noises – which sound like eerie hisses and whistles.

Some suggest the din offers proof that E.T. really IS out there.

Even NASA can't explain the sounds – which have been recorded on special microphones located 22 miles above the Earth's surface.

The 'infrasounds' were captured by Daniel Bowman, a student at the University of North Carolina.

The sounds can only be heard by human ears after speeding up the recordings – and were picked up at frequencies below 20 hertz.

Daniel says: "It sounds kind of like The X-Files."

Infrasound can travel long distances – and could yet emanate from deep space.

I WANT REAL

SEX!

says Luther babe Ruth

LUTHER babe Ruth Wilson says she wants her on-screen sex scenes to be as REALISTIC as possible.

The brunette actress shot to fame as psycho Alice Morgan in the BBC One crime drama series.

She will now play adulterous minx Alison Bailey in new Sky Atlantic drama The Affair, in which she gets her BOOBS out for romps with co-star Dominic West.

Alison is a young waitress trying to piece her life and marriage back together in the wake of the death of her child.

And Ruth, 33, says

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

she was desperate to impress nookie lovers in her steamy scenes with Dom as a New York City schoolteacher.

She revealed: "If you are going to show sex, then you have to try to make it as real as possible.

"That's what Dom and I were pushing for. Of course The Affair should have sex in it, because sex is a major part of relationships. Major.

"But you need to get behind the psychology of it, make it more than titillation."

Busty Sofia: Don't forget my ass, too!

BUSTY actress Sofia Vergara has told fans to stop staring at her MASSIVE boobs – and starting ogling her ARSE instead!

The gorgeous star of Sky One's Modern Family has a cleavage that's quite simply impossible to ignore for most red-blooded fellas.

But the 42-year-old (above) says folks should be noticing her bottom too.

During a radio interview she blurted-out: "Every three steps someone is talking about my tits or ass."

"They talk more about the tits than the ass, unfortunately."

"Because I think it's been, like, underestimated."

"My ass is really good. I mean, it's not J-Lo's ass, but... can you say those words in the radio?"

"I work hard for my butt now that I'm getting older."

"I work out now. I mean, I think I deserve a little respect."

JAW BLIMEY! Half-ton monster croc is snared

A MONSTER crocodile that terrorised a community by stalking children and eating dogs has been captured.

It took six people and tranquillisers to wrestle the half-ton 4.3metre beast from the banks of the Daly River – south-west of Darwin in Australia's Northern Territory.

Wildlife ranger Tom Nichols said the saltwater crocodile was targeting young children and had eaten several dogs as they were being walked by the river near the indigenous community.

He said the croc would have been 4.8 metres long if it was not missing part of its tail.

Trap

"It was posing a threat to the community by taking dogs on the bank and there are kids who swim and fish close to the bank and people in the community who use the waterways," he said.

Northern Territory police reacted to complaints about the croc by setting a trap on the river bank.

Mr Nichols added: "There were six people who helped all together. We utilised different people to do it and most were watching."

"It always gathers a crowd down there when this sort of thing happens."

The beast was given a new home at Darwin Crocodile Farm.

IT is no mystery who's behind these bouncy boobs...

New comedy Murder In Successville hits our screens tonight on BBC Three.

The improvised murder mystery series, starring Tom Davis, takes place in the fictional town of Successville.

And each week, a famous guest star helps police solve a bizarre celebrity homicide – with hilarious results.

Yes, it's bonkers stuff but there's still plenty of brilliant TOPLESS babes on the show!

Actress Frances Barber, 57, plays a strip club owner inspired by The Great British Bake Off host Mary Berry.

The busty actress, from Wolverhampton, previously went NAKED in 1985 cult flick A Zed and Two Noughts.

She played a kinky HOOKER who seduces a wealthy zoologist after his wife dies in a freak car crash.

Murder In Successville starts tonight at 10pm on BBC Three.

Frances's mystery boobs!

FRANCES BARBER

Miss sacked for starring in porno vid

A SCHOOLTEACHER has been sacked after bosses found out she'd made a PORN movie.

The blonde stunna, identified only as 'Lucie', strips naked before performing full sex with a well-hung male co-star in the 10-minute film.

During the flick she even admits to being a 'special pedagogy teacher from Česká Lípa', in the Czech Republic.

But it didn't take long for the footage to be shared among pupils at her school, Základní škola Pátova, and she's since been shown the door.

Spokesman Petr Jonáš confirmed: "I'm very sorry, but we had to say goodbye to her."

One parent said of 35-year-old Lucie: "I don't want to judge this person. Who knows what drove her to do it ... but having sex for money with a stranger in front of a camera does not coincide with the educational mission."

Lucie has since claimed she was high on cocaine when she filmed the grumble vid.

Raunch 'n' Judi!

FILM legend Dame Judi Dench stars in tonight's LIVE election drama The Vote.

Broadcast from the Donmar Warehouse theatre in London, the play takes place at a polling station during the last hour of the general election.

The end of the production will coincide with the actual result of the polls, so it's pretty tense stuff.

But forget all that stuff... because one of the cast has gone TOPLESS!

Judi, 80, whipped 'em out in a stage performance of A Midsummer Night's Dream back in the late 1960s.

An onlooker at the time was reported to have said: "Stop objectifying her. This is art."

See The Vote on Thursday at 8.25pm on More4.

'BENEFITS ST' STAR ON COCAINE CHARGE

FOUR residents of TV's Benefits Street have appeared in court accused of conspiring to supply crack cocaine and heroin.

Among the defendants is Samora Roberts (right), of James Turner Street, Winson Green, Birmingham, who is also accused of conspiring to supply cannabis and two counts of illegal possession of ammunition.

A jury at Birmingham Crown Court heard the 33-year-old had pleaded not guilty to all the charges, with a trial expected to last three weeks.

The jury has been selected only from people who have not watched the Channel 4 reality show, which focused on the day-to-day lives of the street's residents.

Ms Roberts appeared in the dock, alongside Charlene Wilson, 31, Tina Thomas, 47, and 39-year-old Ian Wright, all of James Turner Street, who also deny supplying crack cocaine, cannabis and heroin.

Judge Philip Parker QC addressed potential jurors, telling them that "... it might cause a problem if you've watched the programme."

The case continues.

Adele set to sex up the cobbles

Drunk 'flashes boobs 'n' bush at gardeners'

A DRUNK woman has been arrested for flashing her BOOBS and MINGE at gardeners who were busy trying to mow nearby lawns.

Neighbours called the police after Tamara Harvey, 56 (above), was spotted lifting up her shirt and dropping her knickers for the shocked landscapers, as she stood on her porch and in the front garden during the day.

When officers arrived they found her to be "highly intoxicated" while eye-witnesses accused her of exposing her "breasts, genitals and backside".

Another added: "You could see everything."

A police report said Harvey claimed to have had underwear on during the incident.

No breathalyser test results were noted in the police report.

Harvey was arrested on a charge of indecent exposure and is being held at the Polk County Jail, in Des Moines, Iowa, on a $300 (£200) bond.

Harvey appears to have dodged a charge of "corrupting the youth", as one of the gardeners was under 18 years of age.

A SILVA LINING!

THAT'S COR LOT: Alison's leaving

CRISIS-HIT Coronation Street bosses are considering signing up busty soap beauty Adele Silva in their hour of need, we can sensationally reveal.

The ITV soap has been hit by TWO major cast departures in recent days, with both Craig Charles, 50, and Alison King confirming they're off.

Brunette Alison's loss will be a real blow to red-blooded lovers of the show, as the 42-year-old provided some much needed eye-candy in her role as knickers factory boss Carla Connor.

But boob lovers needn't worry too much - Corrie bigwigs plan to replace Alison with an equally-fit thesp who just loves flashing her bare BREASTS!

Adele, 34, shot to fame as back-stabber Kelly Windsor in Emmerdale, becoming the so-called 'biggest bitch

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

in British soap'.

She'll now set the cat among the pigeons on Weatherfield's cobbles by playing a seductress who preys on hot young men.

Our set source told us: "Adele has been off our TV screens since leaving Emmerdale in 2011, and it's high time she returned."

"She'll be perfect as a feisty MILF who wants to have her wicked way with hunky male cast members. And male viewers will have reason to tune-in too, as she's easy on the eye."

Leicester-born Adele - who had a boob job in 2004 - went topless on holiday in 2007.

Speaking about her chest, she said: "I've always been honest about my boob job. That's the way I am. I'm really happy with them seven years on."

Mel's birthday treat

IT was probably the BREAST night out ever for some revellers when ex On The Beach star Melissa Reeves flashed her CLEAVAGE outside a London nightclub.

The Liverpool beauty was celebrating her 23rd birthday at the Café de Paris near Leicester Square on Saturday night.

An onlooker said: "Melissa definitely had a couple of drinks... we were all hoping she'd get her clunge out!"

SEXY student Emma K has confessed: "I am desperate to have a THREESOME!"

The Derby stunna told us her ultimate fantasy is to have wild GROUP SEX.

And Emma, 22, admits she's gagging to find a naughty couple to satisfy her desires.

The 32E beauty said: "I'll be honest, I can't stop thinking about having a naughty threesome!"

"I haven't had chance to try it yet - but I definitely want to."

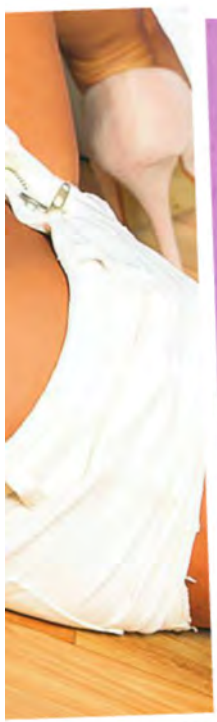

"It's probably my biggest fantasy."

"I'd really love to go to bed with a guy and another girl, so if I can find a couple who are up for it, I'd definitely get involved!"

Probably time to start forming an orderly queue, ladies and gents!

Women who talk proper are better at sex... Ear, ear!

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

WOMEN with sexy voices are more attractive than those with an annoying tone, according to top bonk boffins.

The sexperts have found a direct link between appealing aural skills and an attractive face, proving that beauty really is in the EAR of the beholder.

So says Markus Koppensteiner, an anthropologist at Vienna University, Austria, who's written a study about it.

He said: "People can make quite reliable guesses about women's facial attractiveness on the basis of their voices."

"Attractive voices may create an idea about what a woman will look like."

"It would also explain why women who have made it on radio also have an attractive face."

One Brit babe widely thought to have the sauciest voice in the UK is Scots honey Kirsty Young, who presents Radio Four's Desert Island Discs.

For the study, Koppensteiner photographed the faces of 43 women before measuring their body symmetry and recording their voices.

One group of men then evaluated their looks, while a second group ranked their voices.

Huskiness

Those women who scored highly for looking fit also scored highly for the huskiness of what came out of their mouths!

Previous research has also showed how women pay close attention to a man's voice before deciding whether or not to bonk them, with ladies preferring a deeper pitch – because they associate it with larger muscles.

Hot blonde model Kim Harper, 24, certainly agrees.

The 32D lovely, from Swansea, told us: "Voices can definitely be sexy, there's no doubt about it."

"I was recently in a club when I noticed a really hunky guy looking at me."

"We made eye contact, my knees went a bit weak, and when I walked to the bar he followed me."

"I could see him coming over and I was giddy with excitement. But when he opened his mouth I must have had a look of horror on my face – because he sounded like that squeaky-voiced comedian Joe Pasquale – like a little high-pitched hamster!"

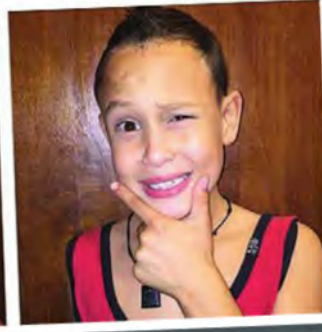

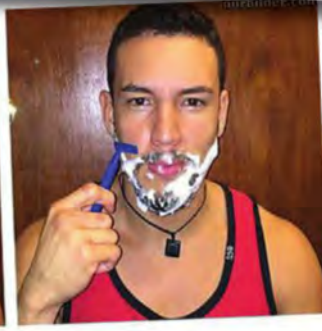

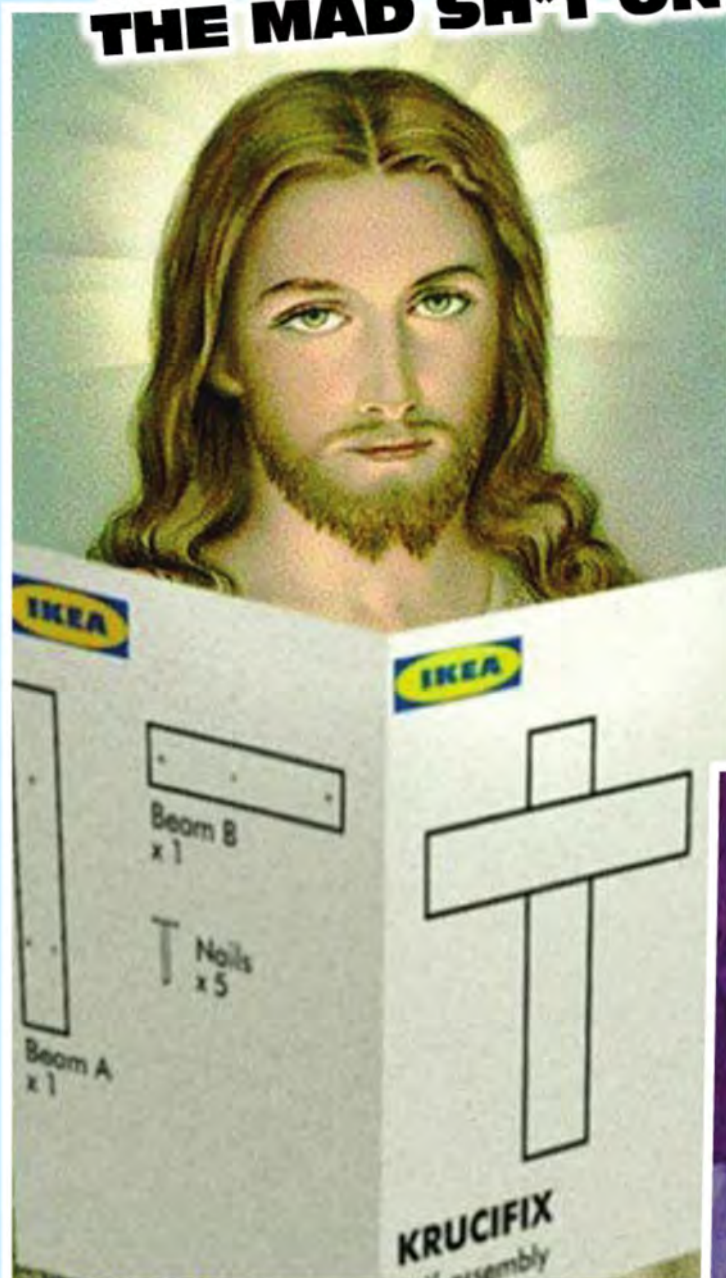

"He was absolutely gorgeous, but I just couldn't take him seriously because of the noises coming out of his mouth. I think I even laughed at one point, which isn't very nice, but I couldn't help myself."

"Did I take him home? No!"

EDITOR'S PICK OF THE DAY

Just a few months ago, she was the busty girl who worked at the local hamburger joint then a nasty sex man discovered her, and now, 21-year-old Mia Khalifa is an international sensation, known for her Lebanese heritage, her love of Florida State football and, of course, loads of ck!

In Mia Khalifa, you'll see this curvy girl-next-door turned porn star in her first-ever XXX scenes, shot in Miami, Florida. In-depth interview, a blow job demonstration, deep-throat ck sucking, taking hard porno ck in her tight, young py...this is the Mia DVD fans around the world have been waiting for.

Sticking with the fresh-faced young feroos, Pure Young Lasses 2 is another collection of enthusiastic newcomers filmed with their fellas enjoying outdoor loving.

GET down to yer nearest PRIVATE SHOP for the sex offer of the year!

It's one thing for stores to sell-off their older stock to make room for new releases but we've done a deal with Britain's biggest and best adult shopping chain to bring you ALL May's top new release titles at a massive THIRD OFF the already low price.

Yes, all titles are available exclusively to Midweek Sport readers at just £20 each! Remember, these are brand new R18 titles from the top studios and leading directors and can sell for as much as £50 each.

R18 is the certification awarded to hardcore pornography in the UK and these titles are only available to broad-minded over 18s from licensed sex shops like the Private Shops chain.

You can't buy genuine hardcore from mail order so you'll have to go to one of the shops. But as there's over 100 across the UK there should be one close to you. Just have a look at the list below.

Mischievous

You can choose from any of these amazing titles from May's new releases including Girls Captivated, Lady, Mischievous Girls, F Buddies, Cougars v Kittens, Horny 50+ Always For Anal, Anal Sex For Lovers, House of Sluts, Girls Get Together, Kama Sutra, Private Interests, Take My Ass 2, Group Sex Party, Amateur Coeds Natural Fs and Lesbian Sex Society.

HOT honey Dorothy
Black once got revenge on her cheating ex-boyfriend... by becoming a hardcore PORN STAR!

The self-confessed sex addict was devastated when her fiancé slept with one of his colleagues.

But, instead of sulking, Dorothy thought it was the perfect opportunity to make a RAUNCHY sex flick!

The Budapest beauty told us: "I'd wanted to try porn for ages, but my boyfriend was so jealous."

"He didn't want to watch me fking other guys, even though he was openly having an affair."

"So after we broke up, I made my first hardcore film – and sent the DVD to him in the post!"

"And the rest, as they say, is history."

The 29-year-old nympho says she has "the world's best job" because she gets to have ROUGH SEX with a lot of horny guys!

And she's even played out her most TABOO fantasy on-camera... DOUBLE PENETRATION!

Pleasure

Dorothy, who also performs under the name Dora Meszaros, admits she loves having sex with multiple partners.

And the 34DD stunna says that being penetrated by THREE different guys is the ultimate sexual pleasure.

She revealed: "I've always enjoyed having anal sex, but I find it difficult to orgasm."

"So when you've got another cock inside your pussy, it just feels incredible. And it's even better when I'm giving a guy a BLOWJOB!"

"I once filmed a gangbang scene and I had EIGHT orgasms in two hours. It was honestly the best sex of my life."

"I'm quite selfish and like being the centre of attention, so it's great when all my holes are getting filled!"

Some of Dorothy's most popular bongo flicks include Maximum Anal, Golden Girls 2, and Leztravaganza!

‘I had eight orgasms in two hours ...it was the best sex of my life!’

Older lover is red-hot sexpert in bedroom!

Dear Charlotte,

I'M a hairdresser, 30, who runs my own salon and I've been dating a fella 20 years older than me.

We met in a bar one night, when I'd gone out with some of my girlie mates.

There was a group of lads bothering us and he stepped in and told them they were spoiling our evening.

The lads quickly went away and he offered to buy us a drink.

We chatted for the rest of the night and when he offered me a lift home I gratefully accepted.

So I asked him in for coffee and once inside I leaned over and kissed him on the lips.

After sitting in the lounge and sharing a bottle of wine, his hand slipped under my skirt, touching the soft flesh at the top of my stockings.

Then he pushed my panties aside and it was obvious to him that I was turned on because I was dripping wet.

As he explored my pussy I felt I would explode – his expert touch was delicious as he probed inside me and we both took it in turns to lick my love juices of his fingers.

So I unzipped him and started to stroke his impressive hard-on.

Sucked

He moaned with pleasure as I lowered my head and took him tenderly between my lips and sucked him slowly.

Within a couple of minutes I could feel the pressure building up in his balls so I said we should go upstairs.

We undressed and he licked my nipples and played with my massive breasts.

I then pushed him back on the bed, straddled him and slowly lowered myself on to his cock.

I fked him slowly at first and then increased the speed until we both came together.

It was the best sex I'd ever had and afterwards we lay there for hours, cuddling and chatting.

I've been with him for six months now and I adore him very much.

But the problem is I want us to go out partying together – with all my other pals – but he says he likes to stay in and watch TV.

How can I tell him he's boring without hurting him?

MK, Cumbria

Charlotte says...

HIS raving days are behind him. So you'll have to move on.

Letter of the day

Dear Charlotte,

A COUPLE of weeks ago two lovely young nurses moved into the flat above mine.

I saw them arrive and I couldn't believe how pretty they were, so I went to introduce myself.

One is blonde and the other a redhead and they both have stunning figures.

We got chatting and I ended up going to the off-licence for some wine for the three of us.

After we'd had a couple of bottles one of the girls told me that they were living together as lesbians, but they occasionally liked cock, too.

Then she asked if I'd like to see what they get up to together.

They started kissing and fondling each other's tits and fannies. It was like watching a red-hot porn movie but with the attraction of being able to get involved.

While the blonde was licking out her mate I started shagging her from behind. I then had the redhead before they both sucked me off.

But the problem is the company I work for want me to relocate 200 miles away.

What can I do?

SJ, Bristol

Charlotte says...

YOU will probably have to accept and go. I'm sure there will be randy nurses there too!

Test of character

Dear Charlotte,

I'VE been shagging my driving instructor, a sexy brunette lady, for months.

I'm an 18-year-old lad still at college and she is 35 and married.

She started flirting with me on my first lesson and after the second she gave me a nosh on the back seat, parked up in a quiet country lane.

I couldn't believe my luck when she sucked me off for five minutes and then wrapped her 32D tits around my cock before I exploded all over her.

After my next lesson I licked her out and she begged me to ram her from behind.

We have had sex in her car and at her house, because every other week her husband is on nights.

The problem is that I've deliberately failed my test twice now – so I can keep seeing her.

But the lessons are costing me a fortune.

What should I do?

TD, Leeds

Charlotte says...

PASS your test and she may give you MORE sex!

SHOW ME THE HONEY!

WELCOME to the interactive Midweek Sport – where YOU get to choose the stunnas appearing on these pages!

That's right fellas, we publish sexy snaps of the babes you most want to see – TOPLESS or even NAKED.

Every Wednesday, Show Me The Honey features the cute curves of the glamour girls you're clamouring for. This service – UNIQUE to British newspapers – is totally FREE!

All you have to do is drop us an email to request@sundaysport.co.uk telling us why you want to see your favourite girl, then sit back and let us do the rest.

STEPH MARTIN

BOLTON accountant Neil Longville, 56, reckons that Steph Martin deserves a place on the cover of Midweek Sport!

Neil, from Churchgate, hopes that 25-year-old Steph will one day return to modelling.

The Berkshire beauty first appeared in the Sport back in October 2010 but retired a few years ago.

Neil told us: "It's always a shame when a gorgeous model like Steph decides to swap career."

"But I wish her all the best in whatever she's doing now."

"Still... it would be nice to see her old pictures once in a while!"

VERONIKA ZEMANOVA

MIDWEEK Sport reader Kevin Allen, 23, admits that he's DESPERATE for a tug over Veronika Zemanova.

The business writer, from north London, is a self-proclaimed "big breast enthusiast".

And he reckons that Veronika – who boasts whoppin' 30G boobs – is his favourite EVER topless beauty!

Michael said: "I'm a bit shy around girls. I prefer looking at them in the newspaper."

"I would love to worship Veronika's sumptuous body – she is just perfect."

Enjoy responsibly, Michael!

NATALIE HOLSTROM

NAUGHTY Natalie Holstrom is the choice of Barnsley bookmaker Russell Jones, 42.

He reckons that Natalie, 24, from Swansea, is the "most beautiful girl" in glamour modelling.

Russell emailed us: "Would you mind printing another picture of Natalie?"

"I haven't seen her in the paper for months, and she's a real knockout."

Well, here's one for you, Russell!

Melanie Lawson says...

IVE only ever cheated once and while the sex was amazing I found the whole thing to be too stressful to carry on any further. It was all a bit of an accident in the first place. I'd been dating and ended up seeing two guys at the same time! I kept thinking, 'OK, I'll go on one more date and then decide which guy I want'. But I could never make my mind up and saw them both for three months! It was a nightmare, to be honest. Every time I was with one man, the other would be texting me! Arranging date nights was a nightmare. Yes, I've never had as much sex in my life, and that was brilliant. But I was run ragged!

Libby East says...

IVE had a few flings behind the back of men I've been with, and the sex was always mindblowing. A few years ago I was dating a bloke, but seeing a 'friend with benefits' - who also had a girlfriend. We'd text each other when our other halves were away and meet up for a quickie. Because we were both in a hurry and didn't want to get caught the sex would be short, passionate and explosive. We'd collapse in a heap, quickly get dressed, and leave the front door with flushed cheeks. It was dangerously brilliant!

As sexperts say shagging away from home is good for your relationship, we look at...

IT'S GOOD TO CHEAT!

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

HALF of Brits reckon that having an AFFAIR helps them to maintain a successful relationship with a partner, according to a saucy survey.

Accusations of cheating would quickly result in the mother of all rows.

Yet 54 per cent of men and 48% of women believe that shagging someone else behind your other half's back is a way of keeping your love life on track.

So says AshleyMadison.com – a site which specialises in arranging illicit affairs.

They polled 11,362 of their members, many of whom are in a second marriage.

Intimacy

And the findings showed that 76% of men and 84% of women were faithful during their first marriage and feel that this was part of the reason their relationships failed.

Founder Noel Biderman said: "Those who have gone through a divorce know just how much stress the process can put on a family – both emotionally and financially.

"I think that's why we see a large number of members who are currently unfaithful while in their second marriages, but who were faithful the first time around.

"They're cheating to fulfil what's missing in their current set-up – they want to keep the family together and avoid another divorce."

The vast majority – 82% of men and 77% of women – feel the main reason for their first divorce was because of a lack of sex and intimacy with their original spouse.

The top reasons people gave for turning to adultery in their second marriage were to "avoid the financial and emotional strain of another divorce", "to fulfil the lack of sex and intimacy with their spouse" and "to find an emotional connection".

Fulfilled

Meanwhile 72% of men and 81% of women who have tried marriage counselling in the past feel that cheating has been more effective for keeping their marriage together.

Mr Biderman added: "It's clear that most people who turn to infidelity are generally happy in their marriage and are trying everything possible to keep their relationship intact.

"Those who choose to have affairs are simply looking for that one missing piece that's absent from their current marriage to make them feel fulfilled – whether that be sexually or emotionally.

"I would argue that cheating can be more effective at preventing divorce than marriage counselling, and the survey data from our members supports this."

Hayley Hall says...

I'VE never been unfaithful to any of my partners, and I can't imagine for a minute that having an affair would help in any way.

If you're in an unhappy relationship, do the brave thing and get out of it. You'll be benefitting everyone, not least yourself.

Why should any of you have to put up with living a miserable life?

And if you're unhappy in your sex life you need to talk about, not go running to the nearest woman – or man – who shows interest.

Horror Channel, 10.55am, Messengers 2: The Scarecrow
Darcy Powers, topless. In a field. With a sprinkler. If that is not enough for you to rip the end clean off, there's a problem.

Film4, 9pm, Silver Linings Playbook
Brea Bee with her pert teats in the shower at 13 minutes. Despite the steam, there's plenty to see.

Film4, 1.15am, Hear No Evil
I have a thing about women in the bath. So I'll be tuning in to watch Maree Matlin among the suds at 30 minutes.

BOOKIE BASHER

OUR SPORTS BETTING GURU WILL PUT YOU ON A WINNER!

IT'S Pep talk time.

This is a stunning fact. Barca have never beaten Munich in a proper game without Guardiola in their ranks as either a player or a coach.

Since hanging up the shirt for the pin-striped suit, Guardiola has managed both clubs with the sort of style only his players could match on the pitch.

The two powerhouses lock horns each other tonight surely safe in the knowledge that, barring a miracle, whoever wins this semi wins the Cup.

Weak

It's as simple as that. Juve are a weak last of the four left.

Real Madrid are no longer as good as Cristiano Ronaldo thinks he is.

But these two? Well, they ain't half bad.

In all honesty, there's a fag paper between them. The history of Bayern and Barcelona has a Guardiola theme running through it.

But he can't keep getting it right, surely. Guardiola is straight-forward in his view of football.

He said: "I look at our opponents and all I want to do is demolish them."

"A 1-0 win, a 2-0 win, no I'm sorry that is not for me."

"I want them to hurt, really hurt."

"I want to let them say they have had their arse kicked by the mighty Barcelona. I will never change."

That sort of impassioned desire makes Guardiola's lads the pick.

The boss is a complicated guy.

In October 2012 in New York he had chatted with Garry Kasparov about how to attack the adversary in chess and other sports, and Kasparov had told him: "You wouldn't attack in the same way from a mountain top as you would from wide open countryside."

He had also dined in New York at the end of 2012 with Ferran Adrià, the gastronomic genius who was about to close his restaurant El Bulli.

The chef told him: "Pep, you're more than a coach, you're a great innovator."

The coach had responded: "Look Ferran, all I do is look at the footage of our opponents and then try to work out how to demolish them (in actual fact he used a rather more prosaic and somewhat obscure term)."

"All I do is study my arsenal of weapons and pick the correct ones I need for each occasion."

We think that sort of attitude is what we want in a coach and tonight it is why 8/11, anorexic though it admittedly is, is why we are backing Barca.

Have to admit the 9/2 about a team as good as Bayern Munich has the lovely whiff of roast chicken and stuffing.

And the draw at 3/1 (three to bleeding one given it could get loony-like cagey) is a bit of a steal.

But no, colours to the mast time. Barcelona will win this. Obvious bet is the straight win at 8/11.

And they do have a horrible knack of conceding at the back. But they usually score more.

So we will go with a good, old-fashioned 2-1 as correct score.

That is generally available at 8-1.

Which looks a tad kinder than a volunteer cat-sitter at the RSPCA.

BETS: Barcelona to win outright (8/11); Barca to win 2-1 (8/1).

STAR: If he can stay on his feet, Arjen Robben is a huge talent for Bayern

STAR: If he can keep his gob shut, Suarez is a huge talent for Barca

Day to end losing run

IT'S an all graded card tonight at Romford. I rarely get involved in the graded action but I think I've found us a nice punt.

Hometown Day is currently on a losing run of 14 races. I predict that run is about to come to an end and Maxine Locke's greyhound can win in style tonight.

He's not been running badly even last time when he finished sixth he was going OK till he got bumped.

Tonight I think he will lead and that is going to make all the difference to him and we should see a different greyhound.

MONMORE THURSDAY

IT'S always a welcome sight to see open-race action at Monmore and when they do stage it you can always guarantee some top-class action.

Boynside Fun is starting to really catch the eye and looks set to make it win number six for Charlie Lister OBE tonight in the 416m event.

Out in trap-six he can ping and cut the corner to make every post a winning one.

Image Shuttle left a lasting impression on me in March when he beat Glenpadden Rock to post a scintillating 27.76 over course and distance.

He then had a crack at the Arc at Swindon but it never quite worked out for him.

He's only won one race from his five starts but back at the track his victory came at I think he's every chance of recording win number two.

Patricia Cowdrill gave him a trial to refresh his memory and it should be all systems go now.

REGENCY HOVE THURSDAY

LIVE on RPTV Thursday is the Coral Regency at Hove over 695m and worth a whopping £10,000 to-the-winner.

It's a competition that always captures my imagination, I'm a massive fan.

The litter brothers Billys Bullet and Touch Tackle look set to do battle for outright honours and to be honest I don't think there is too much between them.

For some reason Billys Bullet seems to get all the plaudits and will go off ante-post favourite so I'm advising an each-way punt on Touch Tackle.

WALK ON GIRLS: So nice, one photo just wasn't enough!

Darts: Premier League power cut

PHIL 'The Power' Taylor's play-off hopes are hanging by a thread as the Premier League Darts hits Newcastle tomorrow night.

The legend currently stands one place outside the crucial top four and has just two games left to play — against Gary Anderson in Geordieland and James Wade next week.

Even if he wins both ties, he will still need Anderson to lose his final game against Adrian Lewis to get through.

With that in mind, we are a thoughtful bunch here at Midweek Sport. We thought Taylor's fans might need cheering up — and the best way of doing that is to choose some random pictures from the world of darts so we were happy to oblige with some of this season's best shots from the oche.

Double top is the first thought that sprung to our mind too!

BINGHAM

BING: I DON'T BELIEVE IT!

SNOOKER ace Stuart Bingham sounds more like Victor Meldrew than a sports star.

Two days after winning the world title at the Crucible, it hasn't quite sunk in yet for the 38-year-old.

He played the snooker of his life all week in Sheffield and saw off Shaun Murphy 18-15 in a heart-stopping final.

But it almost left him with one foot in the grave after almost 20 years in the game's wilderness.

Bingham did his best Meldrew when saying: "I don't believe it!"

"It's unbelievable to be sitting here as world champion. Twenty years as a pro.

Blood, sweat, and tears, on the road, qualifying in places like Prestatyn and Malvern, places like that. Everything rolled into one, so many family and friends backing me, it's just been unbelievable."

SNOOKER

The final itself was a real rollercoaster, with Murphy racing into an 8-4 lead before Bingham took over.

His opponent looked nervy as the Basildon potter race into a 12-9 lead on the final day after winning four frames on the bounce.

Then the lead swung both ways until an epic 31st frame which took more than an hour.

Bingham won it and didn't look back.

He added: "At 15-15 I thought my chance was gone, my arm felt like someone else's and the nerves had got to me.

"I thought I was going to do Shaun's speech, all commiserations.

"I think it was a 63-minute frame and to go 16-15 up, that changed everything.

"It calmed me down. Unbelievable. Winner, winner, chicken dinner!

"You dream of it as a kid playing and practising when you start out, but it's a reality now.

"I was so overwhelmed just to get into the final. Just to witness the final and experience it was great, I didn't care if I won or lost."

Murphy couldn't join the ranks of great players to have won more than one Crucible title. But he joined the rest of the snooker world in paying tribute to Bingham, who is one of the most popular players on the circuit.

Murphy said: "As a snooker geek like Stuart, there is not a player alive who deserves it more than him.

"He played like a winner all the way through the match.

"Sometimes in sport people are meant to win things. He loves snooker more than life itself.

"He fully deserved to win this tournament and although I'm disappointed to lose I'm happy for him and his family.

"I can have no regrets. I think I played some great stuff. There can only be one winner and it wasn't me."

GONE: Trott has retired

Trott's out, now Cook under fire

CRICKET

ENGLISH cricket looks set for a major shake-up after it's latest cock-up saw them lose to a "mediocre" West Indies side.

Batsman Jonathan Trott has announced his retirement from Tests after a shocking run in the Caribbean — and it looks like he won't be the only one hanging up his boots.

Team boss Peter Moores is also coming under intense pressure to fall on his sword before this summer's Ashes series that insiders fear could be a bloodbath.

And there are whispers about Alastair Cook as captain too. England were shocking in the final Test against the Windies, failing to a comprehensive defeat against a side that has been struggling badly in recent years.

The Three Lions look woefully weak in the batting department and are still relying on a creaking James Anderson with the ball.

They seemingly can't find a spinner worth the name and there's a desperate search for someone to open the batting with Alastair Cook.

PRESSURE: Cook

has put his size nines into the debate about England's future by blasting skipper Cook. Boys, hardly known for his captaincy prowess himself, says the left-hander needs a reality check.

He raged: "Cook acts as if he is the best captain England have ever had."

He is living in cloud-cuckoo land about his captaincy ability. He thinks he is untouchable.

And Boycott isn't relishing the prospect of Andrew Strauss taking the job of manager of England cricket.

He added: "If that is the best that Tom Harrison, the chief executive, can come up with, God help us."

"Why? Because Cook calls him 'Straussy', they opened the innings together for a long time, are best mates, shared dressing rooms."

"So Cook will be safe and captain forever, as will some other players Strauss played alongside. He is too close to the players."

Relief

On top of that, Cook has all the fire of a shy librarian and the tactical acumen of an Italian general in leading the side.

Many cricket fans breathed a sigh of relief at the news about Trott's retirement.

He was one of the best number three batsmen in English history before he fell apart on the last Ashes tour to Australia.

Bringing him back to open the batting after a break was a bad move from day one and he can be remembered now as the good player he was at his peak.

Trott said: "This was a tough decision but I don't feel my game is at the level you need to be at to play for England."

"I was honoured to be given the opportunity to come back and play international cricket and I'm disappointed it didn't work out."

WITH HIS SPORTING ODDS AND ENDS

MESSI: He and Suarez have hit it off in the Champions League

The lad's a bit special

BAYERN travel to the Nou Camp this evening for the first round of their Champions League semi-final against Barcelona.

They have an outstanding record against the Spanish giants who have only won one of their eight previous games against the Germans in European competition.

Barca are 7/10 to take a first leg advantage back to the Allianz Arena next week with Bayern 17/4 at BetVictor and the draw at 3/1.

The last Champions League semi-final between the sides two years ago ended in a 7-0 aggregate success for Bayern but this Barca side look to be peaking at the right time with Lionel Messi, Luis Suarez (hat-trick at the weekend) and Neymar all at the top of their game.

Barcelona are 4/6 to qualify for the final with Bayern 6/5;

MESSI AND CO TOO GOOD FOR BAYERN

this will be the first time Bayern boss Pep Guardiola has faced Barcelona as an opposition manager and it will be strange to see the Barca legend in the opposition dug out.

Guardiola won 14 major honours in his four seasons at the Nou Camp but I expect Barca (7/4 to lift the Trophy in June in Berlin) to make it through to the final in a game which is likely to be cat and mouse in the first leg.

Messi has eight goals in the CL so far this season one behind Luis Adriano and is 17/5 to score first, 10/11 to score at anytime and 11/8 to be the competition's top goalscorer when the dust has settled.

Suarez makes more appeal at 5/1 to be the first goalscorer and I also like the look of the 21/20 for two or fewer goals to be scored in the game.

It promises to be a classic but might be more a game of chess than attack against defence.

★ The Players' Championship is widely regarded as the fifth Major golf tournament of the year with last weekend's World Matchplay Champion Rory McIlroy 7/1 favourite.

The Northern Irishman is a superstar but he must be shattered after last week's exertions and he is reluctantly overlooked on a course (TPC Sawgrass) where he has finished in the top ten for the last two years.

BetVictor are paying six places on the event and one interesting statistic the winner's score in the last four years has been 275 (-13).

Tiger Woods, dual winner of the event in 2001 & 2013, is 35/1 and the former world number one announced earlier in the week his relationship with Olympic skier Lindsey Vonn had gone downhill fast and the pair had split.

My two against the field are Justin Rose (20/1) and Louis Oosthuizen (50/1) both former Major winners and excellent ball strikers.

★ In today's Chester Cup, the Irish have a strong raiding party including Shu Lewis in stall one (20/1) but marginal preference is for QUICK JACK (3.10) who has been hitting the bar in recent visits to Britain.

Preston out to end play-off hoodoo

Chesterfield v Preston
Thursday, 7.45, Sky Sports 5

PRESTON must overcome a shocking play-off record to make the Championship.

North End have played in the end-of-season lottery no fewer than nine times since they were brought in 26 years ago.

They have failed to go up EVERY time.

Preston boss Simon Grayson knows that dire stat is playing on minds at the club.

He said: "People will question our record in the play-offs but records are there to be broken."

"I have no doubt that we are a good team."

"We have to go into the play-offs excited by them, not be fearful."

Momentum

"The supporters might be fearful, which is understandable, but the players won't be allowed to do that."

North End lost the chance for automatic promotion after losing at Colchester on Sunday. That allowed MK Dons to leapfrog them into second spot.

Grayson added: "There is always a lot of talk about going into the play-offs with momentum."

"I think we still have momentum because Colchester was our first defeat for 19 matches. So we will use the play-offs as a motivation to get Sunday out of our systems and go on to get promoted."

"There is this second chance for us and it is up to us to take that."

"It is going to be a quick turnaround between matches."

North End have no injury worries and Chesterfield also have a full squad to pick from.

LEGENDS: Paul Scholes is Xavi's favourite player, while Effenberg would think he's better than them both

Eff's Pep talk

HE SAYS BAYERN TOO SLOW TO BEAT BARCA

LEGENDARY big gob and former Bayern Munich captain Stefan Effenberg says Pep Guardiola's side need a rocket up their backside.

They go into the first leg of the Champions League semi-final against Barca tonight on the back of another successful season.

Guardiola goes back for the first time to his beloved Barca — where he won 14 trophies in just four years as boss.

But Effenberg — who ended his international career by giving the finger to the Germany fans — says Pep's possession style bores him to tears.

He said: "Bayern always have 65-70% possession."

By JOHN ANTHONY

That worked out badly for them in last year's semis against Real Madrid in both legs, home and away.

"Der Tiger" thinks Bayern need to mix up their game more, playing more against their opponents rather than just the manager's idea that stays the same for every match.

He reckons former coach Ottmar Hitzfeld understood this better than the Spaniard does.

And Effenberg hates the sight of Guardiola constantly standing in the technical area, telling his players what to do.

He added: "You've got to trust your players — who have spent the whole week running up to the game preparing and working on tactics."

"Apart from that, Guardiola is leaving himself open for problems with the fourth official if he's permanently in his technical area."

"It gives away the amount of pressure he puts himself under and that's not healthy for the team."

"The match against Barcelona will be an exam for this Bayern side."

The Catalan giants are just trying to stop Pep's return from being too much of a distraction.

He's rightly loved at the Camp Nou and the Barca chiefs worry that the home fans will make it clear they would prefer to have him rather than current boss Luis Enrique in the dugout.

The home side go into the game with a fully fit squad and on the back of an 8-0 league drubbing of Cordoba at the weekend.

More than welcoming back Pep, the home side are focusing on an emotional occasion of their own as it will be the last European home game for Xavi.

He came into the side as Guardiola was winding down his career and has been a star in the Barca midfield ever since during the most successful period in the club's history.

He made his Champions League debut against Manchester United way back in 1998 and has played a record 170 European matches since, winning three Champions League titles.

Xavi was just 18 on that night at Old Trafford but he came up against a player he says is the best midfielder he has played against — Paul Scholes.

Xavi said: "For me, Scholes the best central midfielder I've seen."

"He's spectacular, he has it all: the last pass, goals, he's strong, he doesn't lose the ball, vision."

After that match, the teenager had made such a big impact that team-mate Guardiola told him: "You're going to retire me from this team."

But Xavi knows his best football was played under Guardiola.

He said: "That was my best time at Barca. The titles came because the manager was an extension of the players out on the field — it was a great time."

CUP RUN CAN SPUR US ON, SAYS CLOUGH

BLADES boss Nigel Clough says his side has the edge over Swindon because of their cup success in the past two seasons.

The United manager made it to the semi-final of the Capital One Cup this year and only just missed out to Spurs.

That was a two-legged tie and Clough reckons that experience will be priceless in the play-offs.

He said: "We have lots of experienced players."

"The one lesson we learnt from Spurs is we were 1-0 down from the first leg and then 1-0 down here as well."

Sheff Utd v Swindon

Thursday, 7.45, live on Sky Sports 2

But we didn't let it get worse and we got back in the game with a couple of quick goals.

"Even late on, that can happen. It just goes to show that, in these situations, you've got to keep your cool and your focus because things can change in an instant."

"It is very rare you can win a tie in that first 45 minutes or even 90 minutes. We know that as well as anyone."

It will be a major test against a Swindon side that finished eight points above the Blades in the league.

Town were 5-2 winners the last time the sides clashed in the west country, but it was 2-0 to United at Bramall Lane earlier this season.

Clough takes heart from that result rather than the hammering at the County Ground.

He added: "We know what we have to do."

"We've got to stay concentrated and professional at all times."

"We've faced this challenge before and hopefully that will help."

Swindon boss Mark Cooper

is looking beyond the league table and reckons his side are big underdogs in the semi.

He said: "We are the underdogs aren't we? I am not trying to be clever."

"We've had two good games against them this year and they renowned for their cup exploits and I am sure everybody will be tipping Sheffield United to beat us because of their record in knock-out competitions."

"We'll go up there quietly confident and we'll be looking for a good performance."

"I am not worried about Preston or Chesterfield. We have Sheffield United first and we have to deal with that and we know it is going to be a really hostile atmosphere at Bramall Lane with 25,000 people there screaming and shouting."

"We've been working every day on the team that we think, obviously it has been a bit difficult because we are missing three or four of the players, but in terms of the shape we want to utilise in that game we've done a lot of work."

"I am hopeful they will all be fit but there are one or two that are touch wood."

IN HOSPITAL: Greaves

Greaves stroke 'chokes' Lineker

FOOTBALL has united to wish Jimmy Greaves a speedy recovery from his stroke.

The striking legend, 75, was admitted to hospital at the weekend and is still in intensive care.

He is said to be aware of his surroundings and his wife says he faces "a long road to recovery".

And some of the sport's biggest names have been sending him their best wishes.

Greaves was a star of the Tottenham side in the 1960s and fellow Spurs striker Gary Lineker said: "Choked to read that Jimmy Greaves has had a severe stroke."

"One of my absolute heroes. Thoughts are with him and his family. Get well, Jimmy."

Greaves was famously left out of the team for the 1966 World Cup Final, despite being just about the best striker on the planet at the time.

Great

The man who took his place, Sir Geoff Hurst, was another to wish Jimmy all the best.

He said on his Twitter account: "Thinking of my friend and one of our greats this morning, @ jimmy_greaves."

"Wishing him all the best and hoping for a speedy recovery."

Tottenham issued a statement that said: "Everyone at the club wishes Jimmy Greaves a speedy recovery after he suffered a stroke."

"Our thoughts are with Jimmy and his family at this difficult time."

Greaves is also known as a Chelsea striker and he scored an amazing 124 league goals in just four years between 1957 and 1961.

The Blues said: "All at Chelsea are thinking of former Blue Jimmy Greaves and his family at this time. We wish him a full and swift recovery."

CARVE UP

STILL IN TOON: Carver will see Newcastle through to the end of the season

Toon fans rage as coach clings on to job

By MIKE MURRAY

NEWCASTLE fans nearly broke the internet after John Carver kept his job as Toon head coach.

After his side fell to an incredible EIGHTH Premier League defeat on the bounce at Leicester, it was widely thought that he'd be booted into touch.

That feeling was only increased by Carver's comments where he said defender Mike Williamson got himself sent off on purpose during the game to duck the rest of the season.

It was thought to be a done deal that Steve McClaren would come in immediately for the final three games of the season.

Drop

But it looks as though the former England boss said no to that idea — and he's far from certain to take the St James's Park hotseat in the summer.

That left the club with little option but to stick with Carver and just hope he can keep them up.

It's far from certain with the Toon only two points clear of deadly rivals Sunderland in the drop zone — and the Black Cats have a game in hand.

Newcastle have issued a statement saying it is business as usual. It states:

"Following the result at Leicester City on Saturday, there has been two days of frank dialogue with John Carver and senior players."

"The outcome of those discussions is that the board, John Carver, his staff and players are absolutely focused on our current situation and the three hugely important fixtures that remain this season, two of which are at St. James' Park."

"All parties accept responsibility for the current situation but are determined, together, to ensure this club — your club — retains its Premier League status. That is the only focus at this time."

That sent the Toon Army into meltdown with online forums overflowing with bile against club owner Mike Ashley.

One of the less violent posters wrote: "I won't say me real feeling as to what I want to happen to Mike Ashley on here, I'll sound like scum."

"But fk him and his club I hope we do get relegated, I don't know what that will do, but something needs doing."

"I hope he sells everyone and takes the TV money then sells the club, cos a few years in the lower leagues is a small price to get our club back."

That seemed to sum up the feeling with an amazing number of fans seemingly wanting the club to go down.

Things are a little more measured at The Mag, the major fanzine for the club. They are urging Ashley to change the way he runs the club or leave.

They aren't impressed at all with the idea of McClaren taking over as boss in the summer, saying: "England supporters will remember him as the 'Wally with the broly', crashing out of Euro 2008 qualification."

"Disappointing at Wolfsburg, his second spell at Twente, Forest and now Derby, the flash in the pan has withered. On form, with two wins in his last 14, he is only marginally better than Carver (with two wins in 16 games)."

They call on a more radical approach to solving the club's problems: "A new manager has to bring a quality of football that reflects the history of the club and desire of supporters."

"Ideally, he will be an achiever elsewhere; a Klopp, a Garde, a Simeone."

Dream on would be the reaction of most people to that last sentence, especially if the Toon are playing against MK Dons rather than Man United next season.

Serious

But the man they are stuck with continues to blame the players for the team's woes.

He has told his squad to: "Grow up and take it on the chin. That's how serious I feel about it."

"We can talk and talk and I am the one who has to come in front of the press and talk. I have told you what I think and I'm an honest and straight guy."

"What I have said to the players is what I have said to them. I will keep some of the stuff to myself but I will also tell you some things."

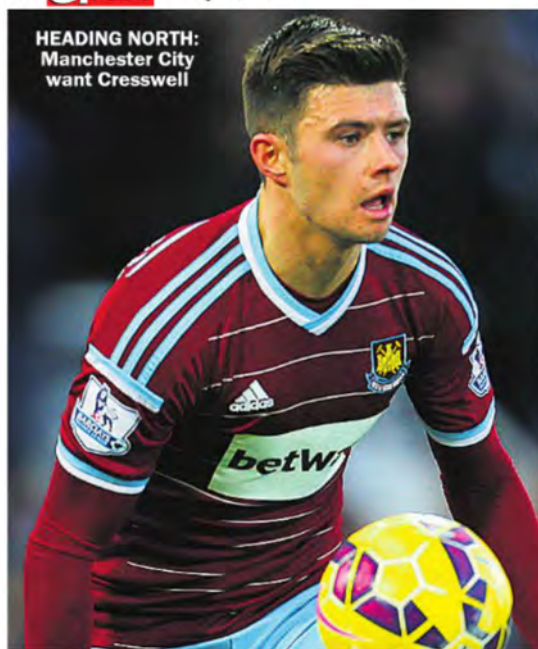

"We need to grow up and accept it."

"The ones who don't want to be there and accept it can stay at home."

HEADING NORTH:
Manchester City
want Cresswell

City to bag Cress from Hammers

By MIKE MURRAY

WEST Ham United are reeling with the news that star defender Aaron Cresswell is off to Manchester City.

Boleyn Ground insiders cannot understand why the youngster is willing to swap being a big fish in a nice-enough pond to being a bit-part player at the Etihad — where they have more players than they know what to do with.

But City are definitely weighing up a transfer bid for Cresswell.

The 25-year-old left-back has impressed during his debut season in the Premier League, appearing in 34 of the Hammers' 35 league fixtures and attracting the interest of several big clubs.

Chelsea are also thought to be considering a £15m deal for the former Ipswich ace, but City are prepared to battle the Blues for the player, who would add to their quota of home-grown players.

Meanwhile over the other side of town Arsenal boss Arsene Wenger insists he will smash the habits of a lifetime this summer and splash the cash on players.

Dream

Wenger may have to suffer an ownership change to get his hands on the purse strings but it will happen.

Africa's richest man has confirmed he has not given up on his dream of buying the club.

Aliko Dangote, a Nigerian Arsenal fan valued at over $15 billion, will shake things up in North London.

Dangote first bid for the club in 2010, but talks with then shareholder Lady Nina Bracewell-Smith fell through.

However the intervening years have been kind to the 67th richest man in the world, with his wealth having grown sevenfold.

It now eclipses the combined assets of the club's leading shareholder Stan

FASTER: Mertesacker

Kroenke, who is worth around $6 billion.

His fortune also eclipses that of the $9 billion of London rival and Chelsea owner Roman Abramovich.

The commodities magnate has not given up on buying the club.

He said: "I still hope, one day at the right price, that I'll buy the team."

"I might buy it, not at a ridiculous price but a price that the owners won't want to resist. I know my strategy."

He continued by admitting that Arsene Wenger "needs to change his style a bit."

"They need new direction," Dangote added.

Gunners skipper Per Mertesacker has urged his side to make a quicker start next season.

He said: "The points we dropped at the start which was 10 or 11 points, it was a gap we could not close."

"We were consistent, especially in 2015, but not consistent enough to win the league."

FOCUS ON A SPECIAL ONE

SPECIAL ONE:
Mourinho salutes
his adoring public

WITH A TALENT FOR SUCCESS

HE'S GOT MOUR TO OFFER

Jose's in league of his own

By TREVOR CLEMENTS
THERE are only two camps in Premier League football.

Those who love Jose Mourinho and those who think he's a lady's front bottom.

Stamford Bridge isn't the biggest ground in the world. But it's fair to expect the vast majority of the 41,837 allowed in that stadium every other weekend will hail him as the Special One.

Probably millions more too around the globe who love Chelsea from afar.

To millions of others he is the most ungracious winner, undignified loser, an arrogant man with way too big a tip for himself.

But both camps have one thing in common.

Twister

They respect him. For he is the best in the business. The full monicker is Jose Mario dos Santos Mourinho Felix.

Christ, Portugal might be a poor country but they know how to afford Christian names.

He's a Capricorn, born on the 26th of January, 1963.

Ageing well, the old twister, isn't he?

His start in football was humble enough. He kicked off as a player in the Portuguese second division.

He had enough wit to work out he wasn't the next coming of Eusebio. So he put himself through college.

He studied sports science at the Technical University of Lisbon and came to Britain for coaching courses, which is probably when he developed a self-confessed love for the country.

In Lisbon he was a PE teacher and supplemented his earnings as a youth team coach at Sporting, then a scout, then their assistant manager.

In the early 1990s he secured a job as interpreter for Sir Bobby Robson at both Sporting Lisbon and Porto and then on to Barcelona where he worked for Sir Bob before serving his successor, one Luis van Gaal.

He started his own managerial career with brief if undeniably successful periods at Benfica and Uniao de Leiria, taking the latter unheard-of club to their highest ever finish.

He returned to Porto in 2002 in triumph as head coach.

He won the Primeira Liga, the Taca de Portugal (their FA Cup) and the UEFA Cup in 2003.

The following year Mourinho guided Porto to the European Champions

League title. The win was completely unexpected.

In 2005, the special one moved to Chelsea, not an unnatural choice given his grounding in British football.

He won the Premier League with a record 95 points. It was the King's Road club's first title in 50 years.

He also captured the League Cup and the following year Chelsea retained the League title.

Twelve months on he had to settle for a League Cup and FA Cup double.

But in 2007 he fell out with owner Roman Abramovich and he was out of the exit door faster than a dose of bad curry.

In 2008 he moved to Internazionale where within the three months he won his first Italian honour, the Supercoppa.

He bettered that by winning the Serie A too. The following year Inter became the first Italian club to win the Serie A, the Coppa Italia and the Champions League. The first time since 1965 the Milan club had won Europe's premier competition.

Along with Ernst Happel, Ottmar Hitzfeld, Jupp Heynckes and Carlo Ancelotti he remains the only manager to have won two European cups at different sides.

He won his first Ballon d'Or best coach award in 2010 before quitting for Real Madrid.

He won the Copa del Rey in his first season and the following year he won La Liga.

In doing so he became only the fourth coach along with Tomislav Ivic, Happel and Giovanni Trapattoni to have won league titles in four different countries, Portugal, Italy, England, Spain.

Secret

After leaving Spain, Mourinho headed back to Chelsea in 2013.

And now we see the result. His next move is anyone's guess but it is no secret the Argentina national side court him as the successor to Heleno Herrera.

Surely that has to be a girl's name?

Mourinho's knack of squeezing a result out of the crunch games makes him the envy of all fans.

His style has been questioned at times. Arsenal fans singing boring, boring Chelsea, anyone?

But they are still the Premier League's second-highest scorers.

Jose, mate, we may not like you but cream always rises to the top.

You, pal, are the cream.

Daley's got Blind faith in United

By JOHN ANTHONY

DALEY BLIND has assured doubting Manchester United fans that Louis Van Gaal is the right man to bring the title back to Old Trafford.

The Dutch midfielder — who has also been playing at the back for the Reds — promises the faithful that they will clinch a Champions League spot for next season.

And he says the club can use that as a springboard to win the Premier League title next season — a claim that has been echoed by his manager.

It's fair to say that the honeymoon is over for Van Gaal and a growing number of United fans wonder if his cautious approach is right for the club.

After looking to have turned a corner, the Reds have now lost three league matches on the bounce and have been short of goals.

They sit in fourth but that's only down to Liverpool's slump rather than their own work.

Compete

But Blind says things are looking up and are about to get even better.

He said: "I think we will compete for trophies next season because a club like United has to be fighting."

"We want to win the league, of course, that's the main thing."

Blind leapt to the defence of his fellow Dutchman Van Gaal.

He added: "It makes a big difference when a manager like Louis Van Gaal comes to a club."

"He has his own philosophy and approach, which players have to adapt to. In the end you see that it makes you better and that it makes you a better team.

"I think everybody has realised that now."

Blind is calling for unity on and off the pitch as United make their final push for that all-important top four place.

Consigning Liverpool to the Europa League is his goal.

He added: "It's very important that we have stuck together as a team for the whole season, even when it's not going so well."

"I am confident and the team is also very confident. We said a few weeks ago before the run of top games that they are all finals — and that's still the same."

SPLASHING THE CASH AT STAMFORD BRIDGE

THE LOADED ONE! £15m a year deal for Jose

JOSE Mourinho is about to be made the richest man in British football history.

The Special One is close to signing an extra-special £15million a year deal at Stamford Bridge.

The Chelsea boss is already on £12.5m, which is better than a poke in the eye.

But the Portuguese genius is about to be rewarded with a £2.5m pay rise for putting his Premier League rivals to the sword this season.

Chelsea have stormed this campaign.

There were times it wasn't that pretty but they have a steel, and at times a style, which even their worst enemies will admit they crave.

Throughout the side there is the stamp of Mourinho.

By God, he's hard to love. By God, he is the best.

He said yesterday he would be happy with another five titles.

Is that all? He's only 52. Younger than when Taggart was first putting the handcuffs on his rivals at Old Trafford.

From the moment he came back to West London, he claimed this was a different project, and gave the impression he was out to build a Chelsea dynasty to compete with Sir Alex Ferguson's.

Mourinho, who has won eight league titles in four different countries, says it is 'impossible' for him to match Sir Alex's 13 Premier League wins but he is determined to achieve more at Stamford Bridge and continue to build a team which can better compete in Europe.

"I'm here to stay," he said. "I belong to Chelsea and Chelsea belongs to me. I gave a lot to Chelsea in the past but they also gave a lot to me. This is a different professional relationship. My next move will be if and when Chelsea decides it is time."

His record abroad marks him as the world's best coach ever. You may argue that Fergie won more titles, Shankly and Paisley were more charismatic down the road at Anfield.

That Clough fella up the M1 knew the time of day at Trent Bridge but none of them won titles in FOUR different countries.

Marvellous effort, that.

It's OK,
I can afford it!
